

From the Desk of Father Peter

A Word of Instruction

“In the days when he was in the flesh, he offered prayers and supplications with loud cries and tears to the one who was able to save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverence.” The words of today’s second reading truly convey the sense of what the second reading should be for us every Sunday: a word of instruction, a communication of encouragement, a witness of faith and a personal story of eternal hope.

The Church listens to this second reading together, that we are united more closely in the love of Christ and in the love of each other by the Word of God.

As we listen, we are freed by these stories which are usually from the letters (epistles) of the Apostles. We are free to make these stories our own any time we listen, hear, and reflect. After we listen, we pause for reflection. After a brief reflection, we rise to the ALLELUIA. ALLELUIA is our call to reverent attentiveness to prepare for the Good News of the Gospel.

Peace and love to all
