

The Story Behind the Music
In the Footsteps of St. John
By Paul Parkman

The name of the song is: "In the Footsteps of St. John". It is a song "from heaven". I received the words of this song in a dream shortly after our Parish council approved the idea to celebrate the feast day of our patron, Saint John the Evangelist and our Parish Anniversary together during the period of May 3rd (anniversary) through December 27th (feast day of St John).

In the dream, I was with other people at an old, unused theatre balcony. Some were saying that the theatre was too old and damaged for use. I heard my voice speak up and say, "No, this will work just fine." I then saw groups of people cleaning up piles of debris in the theatre. I then noticed a large room with a large table in the center. People were sitting around it. On the table was a document that was as large as the table. People were signing it. Someone next to me handed me a pen and said, "Sign." I was then suspended over the center of the table. I saw myself writing my name on the document. I saw my name clearly written on the document. When I awoke, the words of the song filled my head. Some of the words made me cry. I got up and wrote them down immediately.

Jamie Cucinelli, my dear friend, is an excellent musician with a studio for recording music. It is through Jamie's efforts and talents that I was able to provide you with this song in a finished state.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

God bless,

Paul
